

Maasai boy in a highland village close to Ngorongoro crater in Tanzania in June 2023

Maasai boy in a highland village close to Ngorongoro crater in Tanzania in June 2023, wearing a typical red, checkered one-piece garment known as Shuka. Too many annoying flies are around the huts and the enclosure for cows, to keep them safe from wild animals. In the back are typical huts which are formed of timber poles fixed directly into the ground and interwoven with a lattice of smaller branches wattle, which is then plastered with a mix of mud, sticks, grass,.... Within this space, the family cooks, eats, sleeps, socializes, and stores food, fuel, and other household possessions.